WEATHER PROBABILITIES .- War Department, Office of the Chief Signal Officer, Wash ington, D. THE CANAL. - The Cumberland Alleganian

"About twenty of the boatmen whose boats are at Sir John's Run were in town yesterday, and in conversation with some of them we learned that there is no regular organization among them, but find that they think it is better to remain where they are than to carry coal at the figures they have been accustomed to raceive. They discuss the matter very quietly, and seem determined to stay where they are uptil further developments.'

The same paper editorially says: "The situation is very simple. About five hundred boats were used in navigation when trade was very brisk. Owing to the present falling off in coal shipments about one half that number of boats can do all the transportation that there is any demand for. What has been the result? Why, the result has been exactly what it always is where a supply more than doubles the demand-prices bave fallen onehalf. Instead now of shippers seeking 'outsiders' and bidding against each other to secure them, even the line boatmen have not been half busy, and 'outsiders' have come swarming to the offices, offering to carry at almost any price. There is nothing new in all this; it is something that can be adjusted only by the laws of reade in the natural way, and the natural way is that we must have a diminution of the supply before the price can be expected to rise. There are one or two things necessary to make times better for the boatmen-either there must be fewer boats in the business or else the trade must increase enough to give them all plenty to do.'

The News says: "A delegation of boatmon were at the hotel during the evening for the purpose of enterviewing President Gorman, but did not see him. They had no especial mission, but merely desired to present their own cases and needs. There is nothing new to note this morning in the canal situation. One bont, the 'Ludlow l'atton,' cleared yesterday with 100,02 tous of coal, consigned to a private party at Washrugion. The rate of freight is stated to be $1

The Orangemen.

MONTREAL, July 12.-Peace and quiet reign throughout the city this morning. The military guards, on all the city armories, remained unmolested last night. Not the slightest sympathy is expressed for the unfortunate man, McKeown, and no one blames Private Fitzpatrick. The inquest is in progress with the exception of groups of men congregated in various parts of the city. Notably St. James and Craig streets, where Orange Hall and St. Patrick's Hall are respectively situated, there is absolutely nothing to show that accelebration is about to take place. Divine service will be held in the Knox Presbyterian Church at 11 o'clock, the worshippers going there without any semblance of a procession. Apprehensions are entertained that Orange Young Britens would walk in procession with their band in front, but this is dissipated by large contingent leaving last night by train, with a band, to pass the day with the Orangemen of Cornwell. About one hundred more started for the same place by this morning's train. The prospects of peace and quietness are very cheering. Coroner Jones is engaged in swearing in ing. Coroner Jones is engaged in swearing to before the close to lower figures ruled in some a jury to hold an inquest in the case of Me-Keown. No evidence will be submitted to day, and after viewing the body the jury ing at 30a$50 per head. will be discharged till to morrow at ten o'clock. Wild rumors affoat of three men being killed this morning by sentries at the Quebec gate barracks are without foundation. With the exception of a crowd at the corner of domestic demand being quite limited, as the Dalhousie and Wellington streets taking an market would have been very dull had it not orange flower from the breast of a young man been for the presence of Eastern buyers, who who was passing nothing of any importance has happened. No violence was offered. The police are under arms and effectively distributed at various points. The commanding officer of Her Mejesty's Sixteenth regiment of the line at Halifax has been telegraphed to hold troops in readiness to start for this city in the event of their being required. The arrivals by train to day from all points are smaller than usual. MONTREAL, July 12-12.30 p. m.-All is import are gathering in St. James street, Victoria square and Craig street. Members of the rish Catholic Union have rendezvoused at St. l'atrick's Hall. Anxiety and dread are visible on every countenance and the worst fears are expressed of approaching trouble. The services in the Knox Presbyterian Church are still proceeding. A large number of ladies are present.

QUEBEC, July 12 -All the necessary arrangeneuts were made yesterday for the departure of battery B, should occasion demand it, to Montreal, two cattle cars being placed in readiness for transportation of the horses, a box car for two field guns, and three passenger cars for 150 men of the battery. Soon after 9 o'clock information was received that the services of the men would not be required, and they were dismissed from the barracks.

REMARKABLE SURGICAL FACT .- On Saturday forenoon a singular and fatal accident occurred in the 21 ward of this city, the particulars of which are as follows : Mr. John Miller, residing on the corner of Park and John sts., was engaged in picking cherries on the premises of a neighbor named Pfohl. While so engaged, and about ten o'clock, he accidentally fell from Resolved. That the secretary be requested to the ground, a fall of not over ten feet forward a copy of these resolutions to Council. He struck on his head and shoulders, and was subsequently taken up in an insensible condition and conveyed to his residence, where Dr. Wheden wassummoned to attend him. The doctor found his patient speechless and semi-unconscious.

An examination revealed the fact that the man's neck was broken just at the base of the skull. Securing assistance, the patient's head, which was thrown backward, was brought into its proper position, when it was discovered that Miller was able to talk. An apparatus consisting of bands and weights was arranged and applied, to both being crowded with passengers. Among hold his head in position. The singularity of those on the Vanderbilt were the judges of the the accident and its results caused several physicians to visit Miller during the afternoon Though everything was done that medical knowledge could devise Miller continued to sink until Sunday morning about 2 o'clock, whon death ensued. The accident occurred about 10 o'clock Saturday forenoon. It will be seen that Miller survived the breaking of his COMMITTEE MEETING.—The newly-appoint-neck sixteen hours. Previous to his death Miled Committee on Streets of the City Council sank rapidiy. The deceased was about fifty years of ago. This afternoon at 4 o'clock a postmortem examination of the body will be held by everal physicians, the mejority of whom are deeply interested in this singular case, which lamonstrated that the dislocation of the human neck is not neccessarily immediately fatal .- Sy racuse N. A dispatch from New Orleans says: Madison Wells and Anderson having suddenly changed their minds as to their intention of going to Washington, it is believed they have been told to remain here and await developments. Wells yesterday received a letter from John Sherman, which he states is very bitter against the people here for violating what he says was a term of agreement. He further says that the letter seouts all danger to bimself as accessory, but that the matter will only serve to show the people here in the true light. The letter is long and contains, it is avowed, the plan alvised to be pursued, but on this point Wells is sileni.
